GERMAN BARONS CONVICTED

18 PERSONS DIE IN CRASH OF BUILDING

Huge Crane Smashes Thru Berlin Newspaper Offices

16 ARE SEVERELY INJURED

Four Stories Partially Wrecked in Accident

(BY GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN — (United Press) — Ten to eighteen employees of the Berliner Tageblatt were killed today when huge blocks of stone material crashed down thru four stories of the building, according to announcement by the management.

The dead included several women. Sixteen persons were severely injured, and scores slightly. Earlier estimates by police placed the death toll from 15 to 50.

A huge crane, swinging heavy blocks of stone for construction work on two new stories atop the Tageblatt building, broke.

Great stones and heavy metal parts of the crane went crashing down thru departments where many employees were at work.

RESCUERS AT WORK

Four lines of police were thrown around the building. The streets were filled with clanging ambulances. Scores of rescue workers went into the damaged ruins of the editorial and mechanical department of the paper, in search of victims buried beneath tons of wreckage.

Screams of relatives in the streets outside held back by police, shrieking whistles; shouts of those directing the rescue work; these followed the roar of the collapse and drew thousands to the scene.

The ground floor of the Tageblatt building was a mass of plaster, steel and stone, thru which sweating workers dug with difficulty, dragging forth victims, some alive, others crushed beyond recognition.

Reports as to the cause of the crash were conflicting at first. Some blamed defective material; others, the top-heaviness of the building, upon which two new stories were to be placed.

MAN IS FATALLY HURT IN CRASH

Columbus Salesman's Car Crushed by B. & O. Train

A. A. Reeves, 27, of 1252 Brydona, Columbus salesman for the Ford Tire Corporation, Chester, West Virginia, was probably fatally injured at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday when his auto was struck by B. & O. south bound passenger train No. 51 at a crossing five miles south of Lima, on the Dixie Highway.

Reeves was brought to Lima by Roy Gunther and taken to St. Rita's hospital, where it was found that his left hand and left leg are badly lacerated and that he had also suffered internal injuries. Amputation of the left leg may be necessary, surgeons state. His condition is critical and Reeves is not expected to survive, is the word from the hospital.

Roy Gunther and Howard Fletcher of this city, who were traveling south, following Reeves, were eye witnesses to the accident. Section men who were working nearby were called and aided in placing the injured man in the Gunther auto. The Ford in which Reeves was riding was completely demolished by impact with the locomotive.

FRENCH JOIN IN CEREMONY

City Takes Holiday in Honor of Departing Yanks

COBLENZ. — (United Press) — "O, say, can you see—"

The opening strains of the national anthem from the smartest of French military bands blared out thru the packed square at Ehrenbreitstein fortress, Coblenz, at noon.

The Stars and Stripes on the tall flag pole fluttered an instant as two American gunners honor men who had come thru Chateau Thierry, pulled gently on the ropes.

A French and American military guard was rigid at attention as the flag came down. Crowds of Germans and French, many with wet eyes pushed forward to witness the ceremony.

SIGNAL OF DEPARTURE

The huge flag sank slowly to the foot of the pole, where General Allen, commanding the last remnant of the American army of occupation, caught it in his arms and folded it.

The anthem came to an end with a crash of cymbals and a great blare of brass.

Our flag was no longer there.

The ceremony signified the formal departure of the last of America's "two millions" from the Rhine.

One thousand Americans made up the last detachment that entered from Coblenz this afternoon. The city took a holiday to pay them honor and "see them off." A little group of 66 remain behind to clean up.

Two carloads of the train that drew the last Americans to Belgium for embarkation to the United States were made up of newly wedded doughboys and their German wives. Many of them had been married in the Rhineland; there were tearful partings between brides and their relatives as the train pulled out.

FRENCH SALUTATIONS

A telegram was received from General Degoutte commanding the French army of occupation in the Ruhr.

"Most cordial salutations to our American comrades. Best wishes for a happy future. We will keep faithfully the loyal cooperation."

The last act of the American army of occupation at Coblenz was to return the compliment of the French who honored the Stars and Stripes.

The crack band of the third army's Rhine force smashed into a stirring Marseillaise.

The blue-clad Poles marched to the flagpole with a huge "French Tri-Color."

Slowly, just as the American flag had come down, they raised it to the top. Exchange of military salutes. Final farewells at Ehrenbreitstein. The Americans fell in and marched to their train, which was pulled out at 2 o'clock. The French will take over the bridgehead February 1.

NATION WARNED OF BLINDNESS

CHICAGO. — (United Press) — The nation will be blind within 200 years, unless the spread of defective vision is checked, Dr. Harry C. Paul, member of the Illinois board of optometry, declared here today.

"More than 60 per cent of the people in the United States suffer from poor eyes," Paul said. "A third of the insanity in the country is due to eye trouble."

"Excessive liquor, narcotics, excessive smoking and artificial light are the principal causes of defective vision."

LINK ENVOYS WITH RUM CASE

Diplomats in Washington Accused of Aiding Bootleggers

WASHINGTON. — (Associated Press) — Declaring they had hit the trail to one important source thru which "embassy liquors" have found their way into the bootleg trade of the national capital, police officers here intimated today that disclosures of a sensational character might result.

The officers conducting the case would not reveal to what foreign embassies or legations their evidence related, although they said they had been promised information that would "rock the city" and might result in some step to request the state and treasury departments to curtail the supplies of intoxicants which now are admitted to the country under diplomatic permits.

Published reports resulted today in a visit by the Cuban charge to the state department and a public statement by him in which he said he was in entire ignorance of any "alleged selling of liquor" at the legation.

The legation charge, Dr. Arturo Padroy Almeida, inquired at the department as to the truth of the published stories that his legation was named in an affidavit made by John H. Lynch, described by police officials as a middleman between diplomatic sources and Washington bootleggers. The Cuban official is understood to have been told that no such information had been laid before the department officially.

State department officials in reply to other inquiries, declared that thus far their only information as to alleged illicit traffic in liquor brought in by the embassies and legations had come from the newspapers. The federal prohibition enforcement authorities likewise were silent, although they did not attempt to discount the importance if the evidence turned over to them, by police.

Chicago School Ousts 16 as Result of Wild Party

CHICAGO. — (United Press) — Sixteen pupils of Oak Park high school were expelled today as a result of a "wild party" held at the home of one of them last week.

An investigation will be made to determine if any of the scholars shall be reinstated.

The party was attended by eight boys and eight girls and did not break up until early in the morning, according to students at the school.

Great Industrial Chiefs Found Guilty of Violating French Orders When Tried Before Court-Martial—

Range From 5,100 to 224,300 Francs.

Portion of Teuton Strikers Return to Work to Furnish Unoccupied Portion of Country With Coal—

Ruhr to Be Isolated Tomorrow.

ESSEN. — (Associated Press) — It is stated on French authority that the occupied territory of the Ruhr will be completely isolated from unoccupied Germany tomorrow.

MAYENCE. — (Associated Press) — Fritz Thyssen and the five other German industrialists charged by the French with refusing to cooperate with the French plans for delivery of reparations coal from the Ruhr Valley were all found guilty by a court-martial here. Fines were inflicted.

Herr Thyssen was fined 5,100 francs, Herr Olfe 224,300 francs; Herr Spindler, 47,752 francs; Herr Kesten was fined 15,632 francs; Herr Wuestenhoeffer, of the Essen Mine Association, 8,640 francs and Herr Tengelmann of the Essen Anthracite Coal Company, 6,020 francs.

BERLIN. — (Associated Press) — After a 24 hour protest strike the workers in the Thyssen and Stinnes mines in the Ruhr resumed work today "in order to continue the production of coal for unoccupied Germany," it was announced.

INCLINED TO LENIENCY

MAYENCE. — (Associated Press) — Fritz Thyssen and his five fellow prisoners, representatives of Germany's Ruhr coal industry, were brought from prison today before a French court-martial for a hearing on the charges that they refused to obey the orders of the French control commission.

Dr. Frederick Grimm, the lawyer retained by Herr Thyssen, was assisted by Counselors Waldeck of Essen, Alfred Frohmann and Herr Neuman of Mayence and M. Le Clercq of Nancy, the French attorney assigned by the French army as technical adviser to the Germans.

Colonel Debaigne, the ranking provost marshal of the French Rhine army, in opening court cautioned the defendants to refrain from demonstration. The trial began immediately upon the arrival of Herr Thyssen, Herr Tengelmann, Wuestenhoeffer, Olfe and Spindler. When the defendants had stated their ages, their business and answered other specifications, the charge was read and Dr. Grimm began his argument to establish the illegality of the arrests and the trial. He concluded with a demand that the court declare itself incompetent, basing his argument on the Hague convention of 1899 and 1917 as well as the Rhineland convention. The court overruled the demand and ordered the trial to proceed.

Thyssen and his fellow industrialists apparently face only fines. The prosecutor at the close of the forenoon session suggested he was inclined to leniency because of the patriotic motives of the Germans. STRIKE SPREAD EXPECTED

ESSEN. — (Associated Press) — It was stated here today that the number of industrial workers and miners now on strike approximated 200,000 including the personnel at the railroad stations which are occupied by the French.

If the French after court-martial pass sentence on other mine directors it is declared that 550,000 miners will consider a strike action.

The workers who have already left jobs, include, it is said, 100,000 miners from pits and 65,000 steel workers from the Thyssen plants.

The mines owned by the Thyssen interests, employing 50,000 have not yet ceased to work.

It is announced that cases of food valued at 75,000,000 marks are being shipped back by the central relief commission.

The Ruhr miners today received a wage increase of about 80 per cent over the January scale of 1921.

TROOP MOVEMENT DENIED

ESSEN. — (United Press) — French troops in the Ruhr were withdrawn from the larger cities today, and quartered in nearby villages, patrols and staff headquarters remained in Essen, Bochum, Dortmund and other industrial centers, but the bulk of the army of occupation was scattered among Ruhr farms. Whether the eighth grade pupils will write on "George Washington in History."

Pupils will be able to show their literary ability by entering into the contest. Added interest is given the affair by the announcement that a prize of five dollars in gold will be given the winner of each essay.

Rules which have been laid down by the committee in charge are as follows:

DEATH SOUGHT BY DELPHOS WOMAN

Helen Draker Swallows Poison in Indiana City

After penning a note directing authorities concerning the disposition of her body and outlining arrangements for her funeral, Miss Helen Draker, 23, formerly of Delphos, swallowed two tablets of bichloride of mercury at Ft. Wayne, Tuesday, in an effort to end her life.

The poison was taken in the girls' room at 120 Eureka-st., Ft. Wayne, where she was employed. She was removed to a hospital. The note, which bids farewell to numerous friends, all residing in Delphos, her former home, proved to police that the girl was suffering from melancholia induced by the recent death of her mother.

In one part of the letter she directs that the same undertaker who had charge of the funeral of her mother should be called to take care of her body. She also asks that the same minister conduct the services.

Scrawled in a nervous sort of hand were directions, among them the injunction that nothing but white be used at her funeral. She also requested that "Abide With Me," "Rock of Ages," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Tell Mother I'll Be There" be sung by the church choir during her funeral services.

Thru prompt medical attention at the hospital, it is believed the woman has a chance to recover, although nurses declared it will be impossible to determine the extent of the action of the poison within two or three days.

Little was learned about the woman from the people with whom she resided, save that she came from Delphos.

NATION DARED BY DRY LAW, PREACHER DECLARES

CHICAGO. — The dry law dares the nation to drink, Rev. Sherrod Soile, head of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, asserted before a meeting of Congregationalist teachers here last night.

"When the government tells me I cannot drink, I feel like standing on the steps of the church and taking a drink," Soile said.

"Just because some of us oppose the dry law is no reason that we are a nation of law breakers. However, those who defy the law and resist it should be willing to take the consequences."

SCHOOL BUSINESS IS ATTACKED

State Examiner Makes Finding on Expenditure of Money.

CITY AND COUNTY INCLUDED

Book Store System Declared to be Wrong

Approximately $90,000 in school funds has been illegally expended in Allen county in the period from 1918 to 1923, the report of the examination of township and district schools, made by C. P. Godfrey, state inspector of public offices shows.

More than $50,000 of this amount has been illegally paid out in the Lima schools, Godfrey charges. The principal item is a disbursement of $48,328.55, made by the Central High School book store.

The law has not been followed in any particular in keeping accounts of the book store, the report says, and the payment is illegal.

Illegal payments made during the period covered by the report are divided as follows: Lima city district, $50,068.84; district schools, outside of Lima, $32,517.79; rural schools, $6,605.92.

Errors and over payments discovered in the accounts of the county schools by the examiner, amount to $4,783.85. Some, but not all of this money has been refunded.

PAYMENT HELD ILLEGAL

Illegal payments, the report states, have been made, because vouchers were not properly signed; funds due on bonds were wrong accounted; expenses of teachers to attend educational meetings and many other causes, none of which are said to be really of a criminal nature.

Included in the payments made by the Lima schools are checks signed by Fred M. Calvert, clerk, which were merely signed with his first name of initials.

"Godfrey was a hard man to deal with," declared Calvert Wednesday noon. "I remember him. He was very exacting. The book account had been approved by a former examiner, but Godfrey said it was wrong."

Godfrey in his report, received by Auditor C. R. Phillips Wednesday noon, says the book store money should have been kept with other funds. No depository interest was received on the book money, which was kept in a separate bank account.

The book store operated under the supervision of Prof. J. E. Collins, who established to enable students to purchase books and supplies cheaper.

DELINQUENT TAX LIST FOR 1922 MOUNTS TO NEAR $125,000 TOTAL

Delinquent taxes in the February settlement for 1923 may constitute a much larger item than heretofore in the history of the county, it was learned Wednesday.

Collections to date have barely totaled $5,000,000, Treasurer Harry E. Boltkins stated Wednesday. To this sum will be added thousands of dollars remitted to his office by mail.

Total of the amount sent in by mail will not be known for a few days, Boltkins said.

Delinquent tax list in Allen county has been growing heavier year by year, examination of records show. At the August settlement in 1921, there was $73,597.42 outstanding. The August settlement for 1922, which is now being advertised, shows back taxes due on real and personal property totaling $123,330.15.

A penalty of 15 per cent, according to law can be added to delinquent taxes.

FORECASTER'S IN HIGH GLEE

Making good with a vengeance on his weather program for Tuesday night and Wednesday, the forecaster probably feels a certain amount of pride over his achievement. Especially in view of the fact that "ragged" when he fails to outline the true conditions in the future.

Altho bitter cold held on until the twilight hours and rain came later on in the darkness as per schedule, followed by sleet and snow, which blanketed the earth early morning. Then later Wednesday morning, a drizzle of rain again set in, succeeded before the noon hour by a real snow storm, at its height when this comment was prepared.

Current forecast includes rain and snow Wednesday afternoon. Partly cloudy and colder tonight and Thursday, except snow flurries near Lake Erie. In view of the fact that we are only about 80 miles removed from the lake, it is considered probable Lima will be included in Thursday's "snow belt."

At least secret satisfaction must be felt by the weatherman, whether he has the temerity to now about it or not. You'll have to admit that he was right about it when he prepared his forecast Tuesday.

But then, nobody expects credit for doing a thing right; it's taken as a matter of course. But when wrong, well—that's different.

SCHOOL BONDS TO BE OFFERED

Board Prepares to Advertise Issue of $540,000

Bids for the sale of $540,000 school bonds, authorized by vote of the people November 7, will be advertised for in the near future, it was decided at a meeting of the board of education Tuesday night.

The entire issue will be sold on bloc unless the board reverses its present plans, Ralph Austin, president of the board, declared Wednesday.

Board members are of the opinion that the present condition of the bond market will enable them to float the issue, bearing 4 1/2 to 4 3/4 per cent interest annually.

Advertisements will be inserted in leading financial papers. If plans of the board are carried thru, final arrangements for offering the issue will probably be made at the next meeting of the board.

By selling the bonds at present, to carry a low rate of interest, the board will be able to place more than a half million dollars in Lima banks, subject to depository interest, it is believed.

Money will thus be available to the board at any time needed, as well as the banks being aided by the plan.

The first time he pleaded not guilty and the case is pending in common pleas court; the second and third times he was fined $300. The fourth case is now before the grand jury, as well as the fifth. He has not yet been convicted on three cases out of five. He gave bond.

CRASH DIDN'T HIT ALL GERMANS

Large Sums Piled up by Those in South America

GAINED THRU WAR PROFITS

Argentina and Chile Neutral to End of Conflict

(BY CHARLES P. STEWART)

NEW YORK.—(Special).—Poverty-stricken as Germans may be at home, it's worth considering that there are a few parts of the world where they ended the war with more actual "cash money" than almost anybody.

True, so many countries were aligned against the central powers that there were not many where their assets, liquid and otherwise, were very safe from alien property custodians. Still, there were a few, notably in South America.

Argentina and Chile remained neutral to the end, if not a trifle pro-German in their sympathies. Brazil joined the allies and seized German ships in her waters, but never interfered with her German residents' private holdings.

New, Germans were and are very numerous in all these countries and owned a great deal in all of them.

BARRELS OF MONEY

If they could have done so, no doubt they would have realized heavily and sent the money home to be used against the allies, but they couldn't get it across the ocean. Consequently it piled up in banks in Buenos Aires, Rosario, Santiago de Chile, Valparaiso, Rio de Janeiro, Porto Alegre and other cities until they were fairly bursting with it.

Through the whole period of huge war profits, with the allied subjects financially pinched by demands from their native countries, the Germans had those vast sums to operate with. The black list was supposed to cripple them, but there were precious few Germans who couldn't find neutral firms to trade thru.

Finally the armistice and the ensuing business depression found the allies, on the one hand, in many cases hard put to it even to last thru the hard times, and the Germans on the other, simply rolling in ready cash with which to gobble up every bargain that the money crisis soon forced into the market in endless numbers.

CASH RIGHT AT HAND

Today, in finance, Germans are far stronger in South America than ever before. In the past the most of their advantages is that when a Latin American government or enterprise wants some accommodation, the Germans don't have to refer the proposition to the home country. If they care to handle it, they have the resources right at hand. It wouldn't be surprising if, on a showdown, there would prove to be the most influential single foreign interest on the southern continent.

Just what it amounts to in cash it's impossible to say, but there's no doubt it runs high into the hundreds of millions—enough to pay reparations for quite a while, if it were possible to get at it.

MIDDLE POINT PASTOR TO OCCUPY DELPHOS PULPIT

Rev. William Surdull, Middle-point, has been named by Lima Presbytery to fill the Presbyterian church pulpit at Delphos until another minister is chosen to succeed Rev. George H. Gibson, who has accepted a charge at the Olivet Presbyterian church in Detroit.

The Delphos vacancy and supply committee will meet soon with a committee from the Lima Presbytery relative to securing a new minister.

BOND, IS JAILED CHARGED WITH LARCENY, AT KENTON

Bond for Howard Mitchell, 19, of Lima, held at Kenton on a charge of grand larceny, has been fixed at $1,000. He is a prisoner in the county jail. Mitchell was acquitted of a charge of robbing the Kraus & Rice grocery store, but was immediately re-arrested.

Two weeks ago, Mitchell braved a salvo of bullets in making good a sensational escape from the jail at Kenton, only to be returned three days later after giving himself up to Lima police. Last week his alleged partner in the crime which the state charges, Eugene Flannigan, of Lima, picked the lock on his cell in the jail and made good his escape. He has not been located.

Druggist Finds Patrons Honest

Kenton folks are a pretty honest lot, according to William J. Lintz, president of the board of education and druggist. Last week he placed a box containing postage stamps and some change on one of the counters of his store. Here people were to make their own stamp purchases, pay for them, and make change if needed. "The idea saves a lot of work by the clerks," Lintz says.

In the five days since the practice was started, the box has turned up but two cents short and for store sells in the neighborhood of $15 worth of stamps a day, Lintz declares.

AID EXTENDED BY LIONS TO WIDOW

Decision to continue aid extended to worthy needy families during the Christmas season by the purchase of coal for a family was decided upon by members of the Lions club Wednesday noon at the Elks Home.

This case was brought to the attention of the club by Joel Spicker. A widow with several small children, who received aid from the club at Christmas time, found it necessary to use all her cash to pay back taxes on her property.

This left her with no money to purchase fuel for her home. Each member gave his share of the money necessary to purchase a ton of coal for the family. Any money not used now will be kept for such calls in the future, it was announced.

Decision to hold a "Radio Meeting," the evening of February 6, when the Kansas City Lions club will broadcast a special program and talks by international officers, was made. Cubs Beckman, Wilcox and Seales were appointed on the committee.

Canvases of the club was made by Elmer McClain in the interest of the Open Forum. He told of the work. During the meeting 18 Lions joined the Forum group.

Cooperation with the American Legion in support of a luncheon to be held February 24 and addressed by Alvin Owsley, National Commander, was voted by the club. Captain W. B. Wilcox told of the plans of the Legion and outlined the program planned.

Members of the Cincinnati, Dayton and Springfield Lions clubs will be invited to cooperate with the Lima club in making up a special train for the state convention in Akron later in the year, it was announced.

A special Washington's birthday party will be held by the Springfield club February 22 and an invitation has been extended to the Lima club to attend. It will be a meeting for the Lions and their ladies.

CREDIT BUREAU DIVISION OF B. O. C. HOLDS RALLY

Thirty-five members of the Credit Bureau division of the Board of Commerce, representing 12 lines of business, attended the first regular monthly meeting of the organization at the Barr Hotel Tuesday night.

Representatives of the medical, hardware, dry goods, mens' furnishings, furniture, coal, grocery, insurance, loan company, investment, decorating and music professions were present. A. S. Cheno-weth is chairman of the board of directors.

Following the dinner and special musical program, a discussion of ways in which the credit bureau can be of greater service to the members and to the community was presented by E. H. Kottler.

General discussion followed in which representatives of the various professions made suggestions. J. E. Morton, manager of the Board of Commerce, gave a talk on the things the credit bureau will expect of its members.

TWO TAXI DRIVERS DENY CHARGES OF SPEEDING

Two taxi drivers pleaded not guilty in criminal court to charges of speeding Wednesday morning and their trials were set for Thursday at 10 a. m. They were racing at the time, according to police.

They gave their names as John Miller, 22, of 440 N. Pine-st., and Frank Nelson, 120 Euclid-av.

Police allege that Miller's car hit a machine at the corner of West and High-sts. Monday night and a few minutes later struck another at the corner of Market and West-sts., but failed to stop at either time. Both machines were badly damaged, according to eye witnesses.

NEW VERSION PUT ON COUEISM

"You Can Become Rich—if You Put Your Mind to it"—Slogan

MANY HAVE BEEN BENEFITED

Idea Has Resulted in Establishment of Odd Businesses

(BY ALEXANDER HERMAN)

NEW YORK.—(Special).—America's "Lady Coue" says: "You can become rich—if only you put your mind to it."

Mrs. Mary Pauline Cleaver is her name. If you don't believe what she says ask 127 persons to whom she has been a fairy-godmother. They range from former Bowery bums to crippled derelicts.

"They are all financial successes now," says Mrs. Cleaver, who is an old-fashioned housewife when she is at home in Plainfield, N. J., but who, when she comes to Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, is a modern business woman with men and women as her stock in trade.

"Whatever a person really wants, he will get—if only he wants it hard enough. But the trouble with most of us is that we don't know what we want."

"As soon as we make up our minds and really determine to get it, we have a little guarantee to wealth."

"No case is too hopeless. I remember one unfortunate sitting in a park near Madison Square. He was as down and out as ever a man was. I went up to speak to him. He turned on me angrily."

"What business are you in—saving souls?" he barked at me. I told him I was in no business. I was just interested in him because there was something about his face that merited it. He wasn't much enthused; said he didn't want money. What he wanted was to get out of his rut—out of himself."

"A butler passed by just then. He was giving his master's pet dog an airing. I told my down-and-outer that there was money in becoming a special washer of pet dogs."

"He caught the idea. His eyes brightened. I loaned him $5 to get a brush and soap. He went to Fifth Avenue, stopped at the most fashionable homes, sold them the idea and soon was established in a business that has since grown to be very profitable."

Other ideas, conceived by Mrs. Cleaver, have made specialists of failures in many callings—rebuilding of old garments, making babies' nightgowns, recovering school books, outfitting dolls, making trick window wedges, etc.

One idea brought Mrs. Cleaver $7000 for just three words, the name of a new bouquet.

"It's the idea that counts," she says, "and then the desire and persistence in seeing it through."

"To get better and better financially every day, one should make this his daily prayer: 'I do not wish to think anything about myself that I do not wish to be true.'"

400 FOR FARM BUREAU

With approximately 400 members already signed up, the Allen County Farm Bureau hopes to pass the 500 mark before the end of the week. It was announced Wednesday. The only difficulty being encountered in the campaign is failure to find farmers at home. Many are taking advantage of the season to visit friends or relatives.

TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE LIFE OF MRS. RAYMOND STALLKAMP

Mrs. Hilda Stallkamp, wife of Raymond Stallkamp, general delivery clerk and superintendent of mails in the Delphos postoffice, died at her home in that city at noon Wednesday, from illness following the birth of a child on December 23.

Mrs. Stallkamp was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Birkmeyer, who preceded her in death. She is survived by her husband and two children, Ruth, aged 8 and Elizabeth Ann, one month. Four brothers, Harold Birkmeyer of Toledo; George of Kentucky; Leo, of Delphos; Wewey, in Toledo; and three sisters, Catherine in Toledo; Margaret, a nun and Mrs. Roy Kortokrax, Ft. Wayne, survive. Mrs. Stallkamp was a member of St. John's Catholic church and an officer of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Blood transfusion, resorted to in an effort to save the woman's life, proved futile. Surgery was performed Tuesday, a brother of Mrs. Stallkamp giving of his life fluid in her behalf.

GIRL TO MARRY SUITOR NO. 1001

Love Makes it Easy to Select "Right Man," Assertion

SAN FRANCISCO.—(Special).—The "girl of 1000 proposals" has accepted suitor 1001.

She's on her way to China to marry him.

Julia Belle Faurot is the girl. Gustave I. Tolson is suitor 1001. They met while touring the orient.

Mrs. Faurot is known as "Chicago's most proposed to girl."

To be arithmetically exact, she denies that she's been proposed to just 1000 times, or quite that many times, or anywhere nearly that many, in fact. One thousand is merely a "round figure," she says. But she admits that she's been referred to as "most wooed."

"Well, what does a girl who has had 1000 proposals—in 'round figures'—think of love? Does such a wealth of wooing make a husband difficult to select? Does it dull the taste for romance?"

Answering question No. 1, Miss Faurot says:

"There's no chance of doubt concerning love once it arrives; I don't think all the proposals in the world would make any difference."

To No. 2:

"I'm thrilled to death!"

Miss Faurot is a Chicago society debutante. She calls herself "plain." Maybe so. But attractive? My! She's small and blonde. She does have flecks!

She has also cultural background that stretches from a Boston music conservatory to a college in Rome. She believes men appreciate talented women.

"I've seen many a beautiful girl passed by for one with brains and charm," she says. "I believe every girl should devote herself to acquiring these advantages rather than to beauty doctoring."

WILL ELIMINATE CROSSINGS

Dangerous Rail Grades Must Go Commissioners Say

Elimination of a number of dangerous grade crossings on the state roads in Allen county will be one of the chief endeavors of the county commissioners during the coming year, John W. Thompson, president, declares.

Among the most dangerous places under consideration are the D. T. & I. railroad crossing on the Dixie Highway, at the north city limits.

Four crossings on the Pennsylvania railroad and the electric line on the Harding Highway west of the city, at Delphos-av. Elida, Scotts Crossing and Wright's crossing.

"Dead man's Crossing" on the D. T. & I. railroad and Western Ohio traction line, south of Bluffton.

The lay of the land at "Dead Man's Crossing" permits tunneling without much expense, it is found.

At Scott's Crossing, a tunnel under the tracks will secure safety. Because the tunnel floor will be only four feet above the river bed, an electric pump would have to be installed to assist drainage.

U. S. MISSIONARY TEACHES CAPTORS

Becomes Chaplain to Bandit Band; Finally Escapes

MANY CHINESE CONVERTED

Planning to Resume Work in Middle of Robber's Territory

SHANGHAI—(Special) A meek American missionary has proved that a soft answer turneth away wrath—even when that wrath is manifested by the wildest and most desperate Chinese bandits.

Seized by bandits and held in captivity a fortnight, the Rev. H. E. N. Ledgard proved the Bible mightier than the most up-to-date Colt or Mauser, converted many of his captors and made his escape, according to information just received here.

The Rev. Ledgard is attached to the China Inland Mission Station at Shanghai, in the secluded and remote province of Honan.

While he was teaching the natives, a heavily armed bandit horde descended on the village.

SOUGHT MISSIONARY'S BLOOD
The bandits plundered Ledgard's home and put it to the torch. They would have murdered the missionary and his family had it not been for the aid of Christian Chinese.

These friendly natives hid Ledgard under a pile of straw in a native temple and assisted Mrs. Ledgard and her son to escape in a market cart.

The two fugitives, after days of hard traveling, reached the security of a mission station in a more settled region.

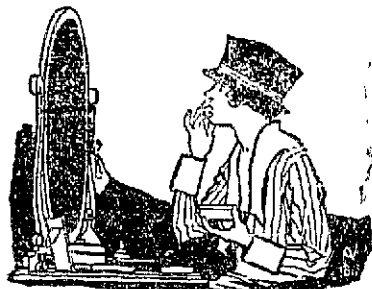

But Ledgard, when he emerged from his hiding place, fell into the bandit's hands. He was forced to accompany the party as it went pillaging thru the province.

Instead of seeking to effect his escape, the missionary began preaching to and teaching his bloodthirsty companions.

During the day he looked on scenes of carnage and loot. In the evening when the bandits were encamped or quartered in a requisitioned village, the missionary ministered to the sick and wounded and then held religious services.

Rapidly the attitude of the bandits changed. At first they had been inclined to kill the missionary to be rid of him.

BANDIT'S CHAPLAIN

until he virtually became chaplain of the band. Converts were many. Finally, with the aid of one of these converts, Ledgard made his escape and joined his wife and children.

Now, undismayed by their experience, the Ledgards are planning to return to Shanghai to resume their missionary work.

But their case has been made the subject of international demands on the Peking government for the suppression of banditry in the inland provinces.

FARM BLOC IS HERE TO STAY

Organization Backing Crusade to Win New Policy

WASHINGTON—(Special)—Until the nation accepts a policy based on recognition that the soil is the foundation of all real wealth, the "farm bloc" in Congress is here to stay, according to its leader, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, in a new book, "The Agricultural Bloc," just off the press.

"Since the foundation of the United States," writes Capper, "the fixed national policy has been to foster the opportunity of the man on the land." But while professing great faith in this ideal, "our people," he adds, "have developed an apathy toward the real needs of agriculture."

"It is conservatively estimated that by the close of this century the population of the nation will exceed 200,000,000 souls. And the United States * * * will either have to depend more largely on imported foods or reorganize entirely its national life."

After recognizing the general principle that "only thru fostering continued production from the soil can national growth be assured," Capper enumerates the following considerations in order of importance:

1. Financing agriculture.

2. Education with a view to increased production.

3. Transportation, including development of railroads, highways and waterways.

"Better marketing," he says, "follows in the logical order, tho at the moment it stands at the top of the list, * * * eliminating excessive costs, regulating those who make unreasonable profits and avoiding waste."

The movement, concludes Capper, is not a "spontaneous outburst on the part of a few, but the culmination of a steadily growing conviction on the part of that third of our population who live upon the land—the American farmers."

EX-SOLDIERS WIN SCHOLARSHIPS

Factory Profits Turned to Benefits of Former Service Men

RESULT OF NOYES' GIFT

Big Increase Made in Number Receiving Tuition

CHICAGO.—(Associated Press)—The factory which creates profits for educational benefits to former service men and women is now sharing in the gradual return to prosperity, trustees of the LaVerne Noyes estate announced today, and a large number of additional scholarships to be divided among various colleges all over the country can be granted as a result.

Income from the plant of the Aermotor company of Illinois, which was dedicated at the death of Mr. Noyes, in 1919, to the service of world war veterans and their dependents, has increased so that it was announced today 63 additional scholarships have already been awarded to two Illinois institutions and many others are in process of distribution outside of Illinois. Forty of these were allowed to Lewis Institute of Chicago and 25 to Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, making Northwestern's total now 100, as 75 were awarded last year.

NUMBER INCREASED
From the $2,500,000 given by Mr. Noyes to the University of Chicago for the same purpose, a year before his death, the number receiving tuition has increased from 286 to 650 at this university.

Except for annuities to relatives, all the income from the Aermotor company and all the other property of Mr. Noyes, goes into the educational fund.

The only other requirement for eligibility, besides service during the world war, is American citizenship.

In 1918 Mr. Noyes gave outright to the University of Chicago a fund of $2,500,000 for the education of American soldiers and sailors of the recent world war, the balance of his fortune was willed for the same purpose and his company is now conducted by the trustees of the Noyes estate under that will and the profits, after certain bequests to relatives are annually made, are subject to the provisions of the will.

BERLIN NOW WORLD'S MOST CRIMINAL CITY

BERLIN.—Even Commissioner Enright of New York City would be forced to admit that the year 1923 was a "crime" year in Berlin.

Berlin—before the war the city of safety—today is probably the world's most criminal city. During the year, police made 110,000 arrests for all sorts of crimes. Two thousand persons were physically attacked by robbers.

Hotel and pension robberies totaled more than 1,000, with only 35 arrests. Much of the attention of Berlin robbers was directed toward foreigners in Berlin, whose foreign money appealed to the German thief.

Museums and churches were special victims of burglary. Pickpockets drove a thriving business during 1922. Never before in the history of the city have there been so many complaints along this line. On trains, on buses, in hotels, on street cars, on the streets and in theatres—everywhere, thieves separated innocent victims from their watches, their jewelry and their pocketbooks.

ARE WOMEN OVERWORKED
Yes, hundreds of thousands of them are. This applies to the housewife and mother who struggles on a small income to make both ends meet by doing all the washing, ironing, cooking, making and mending for a large family. There are others who not only support themselves working in factories, shops, stores and offices, but often have an invalid father or mother to support, therefore do housework beside.

These are the women who break down early and are afflicted with various forms of female weakness. Ninety-eight out of every 100 women who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have proved that it is a successful remedy for women's ills. For nearly fifty years it has been restoring women to health, and it will pay every ailing woman to try it.—Adv.

There is a tendency on the part of many to feel that their prescriptions can be filled "anywhere"—that "drugs are drugs."

The work of the most skillful of physicians can be set at naught by improperly prepared medicine.

'TEETH' PUT IN DRY ACT BY SENATE

Drastic Prohibition Measure Adopted by Ohio Solons

ACT HITS LIQUOR SOLICITOR

Bloom Back After Absence Since Inauguration

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — The legislative program for strengthening Ohio's prohibition enforcement code today had moved one step nearer completion through passage by the senate late yesterday of the bill of Senator Bender of Cleveland which would make considerably more drastic the provisions of the Crabbe act.

Unlike prohibition measures of days gone by, the Bender bill passed the senate by a unanimous vote and with little debate and now goes to the house where favorable action is predicted.

The single feature of the bill which was contested was a committee amendment which, according to its opponents, usurped some of the rights of the courts in providing that judges might not remit or suspend any part of either fines or sentences imposed under its provisions.

Clauses which would subject the furnisher of death dealing poison liquor to a charge of murder, bring the liquor collector within reach of the law and make the manufacture of distilled liquor a felony passed by without comment.

AMENDMENT DEFEATED — Attacking the provision that fines and sentences might not be reduced, Senator Gardner, Republican, of Cincinnati declared that those were rights reserved to the courts and that judges who knew their prerogatives would not heed the clause.

He offered an amendment eliminating it. This was defeated, however, and the Cincinnati senator cast his vote for the bill. Later, however, he succeeded in attaching a similar provision to a bill of Senator McCoy making conviction for automobile stealing punishable by a mandatory prison sentence, and the bill failed of passage.

Both senate and house yesterday practically closed their calendars, passing numerous minor bills, and will not meet today until 1:30 p. m. Numerous committee hearings were being held today.

One measure passed by the house yesterday would require a three year course in a law school before candidates might take the state bar examination. This measure was introduced by Representative Tallroth, Republican of Cincinnati and now goes to the senate.

SCHOOL MEN HEARD — School men who appeared before the house taxation committee last night at a hearing on the tax limitation bill, renewed their requests that all sinking fund and interest levies be placed outside the limitations of the bill.

The measure would limit total levies in cities to 17 mills and in rural districts to 14 with a maximum levy of 5 per cent for school purposes. Placing of the sinking fund levies within these limitations would leave insufficient revenues for operation of the schools, it was said.

BLOOM RETURNS — An air of tranquillity hung over the senate chamber today after two days of uncertainty which resulted from the absence of Lieutenant Governor Bloom and the action of the Republican majority in appointing a committee to investigate his failure to appear on the rostrum since January 9.

The lieutenant governor returned yesterday from his home in Bowling Green and the extent of his absence yesterday apparently was not regarded as a closed chapter in spite of the fact that some difference of opinion still existed between Mr. Bloom and Majority Floor Leader Kryder as to whether or not the latter had been notified of the reason for Mr. Bloom's absence and of the fact that he was to return yesterday.

ABSENCE EXPLAINED — Immediately upon mounting the rostrum the Democratic lieutenant governor, saying he wished to account for his absence to the investigating committee and the senate, said that he had been occupied with urgent business and contrary to previous statements by Senator Kryder, had notified him almost two weeks ago that he intended remaining away and that he would resume his position as president of the senate today.

Sensor Kryder, who in the resolution authorizing appointment of the investigating committee, declared that he was unadvised as to the whereabouts of Mr. Bloom and did not know when he would return, at first refused to reply to his statement. Later, however, he read a statement in which he reiterated his lack of information until yesterday as to the lieutenant governor's location or intentions.

The investigating committee had previously reported that the appearance of Mr. Bloom had made unnecessary any work on its part. The lieutenant governor declared that although he regarded the senate's action as "absolutely outrageous," he would bear no ill will and treat all alike. Mr. Kryder who had made a similar statement, moved adjournment and the incident was closed.

Government Operation Will be Put up to Congress

INDUSTRY CALLED FAILURE

Public Not Adequately Served, Senator Walsh Declares

(BY PAUL R. MALLON) — WASHINGTON (United Press) — An effort to pass legislation for government operation of coal mines will be made at this session of congress.

In the belief that private operation of the mines has failed to meet public needs, a resolution is being introduced to declare mining of coal a public utility and to authorize the government to operate these interests for the benefit of the consumer.

The attitude of those seeking such action was outlined to the United Press today by Senator David Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrat, who believes that government operation is the only solution of permanent life in the fuel industry.

The anti-trust shortage is not, blamable upon the retail dealers nor alone upon the railroad companies, Walsh said.

ROOT OF TROUBLE — "The root of the trouble is at the mine—in with the management of the industry in the coal fields.

"This failure is not a temporary one. It is not caused by a single strike or a single attempt by those who hold the industry in their power to profiteer.

"Year after year to a greater or lesser degree this industry has failed to give adequate service to the public.

"From the standpoint of the public, the coal industry has failed, although it may be a big financial success from the standpoint of the owners. It is not of concern to the public whether the miners or the coal operators are to blame.

"When such a situation exists, there is no course which will protect the public, except rigid government regulation, and if that fails, government ownership and government operation."

Walsh argues that government regulation has failed since a half million dollars has been spent in setting up a bureau of investigations which have investigated the causes of coal famine.

AGREE ON WAGE SCALE — NEW YORK. (United Press). — A conference of bituminous miners and operators, meeting at the Hotel Pennsylvania today, agreed to extend for one year from April 1, 1925, the existing wage scale.

Operators and miners from Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, were represented. It is understood that Pennsylvania and West Virginia will come in later on the same terms.

The agreement reached today reaffirmed the existing wage scale in all its terms, provisions and conditions. It was also resolved to meet again January 8, 1924, to agree on a scale for the succeeding year.

The delegates declared that copies of the agreement be sent President Harding, Attorney General Daugherty and the United States coal commissioner.

DONAHUE NAMES BELT — COLUMBUS — C. E. Bell, Hulsboro manufacturer, today was appointed Ohio representative to the Brazilian centennial celebration, to be held next month, by Governor Donahue. He will sail from New York February 3 at his own expense, the governor's office said.

CHILD SCALDED — Charles Crowley, four old son of Charles Crowley, of Kenton, was badly scalded when in playing near the kitchen stove he accidentally upset a large pot of boiling water over his head and shoulders.

LADY STATES IT IS LIKE MAGIC

This Delphos Lady Says. the Plant Juice Medicine is Just Wonderful

RELIEVED RHEUMATIC PAIN

"I am surely glad to publicly recommend your Plant Juice to people who suffer like I did. It is just like magic in its action," said Mrs. Anna McGlumphy, of Delphos, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 6, during a recent conversation with The Plant Juice Man at

MISS ANNA MCGLUMPHY

Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima.

"For a long time I had suffered from kidney trouble and rheumatic pains in my back and shoulders and cramps in my limbs," Mrs. McGlumphy continued. "The cramps in my limbs were so bad that they kept me awake at night. I felt tired and worn out all the time. My appetite was poor and what food I ate would cause me to have bad dreams.

"Finally, I started to take your Plant Juice medicine and its action upon my entire system has been just wonderful. I do not have the cramps in my limbs now and the pains in my back and shoulders are gone. I can eat anything I want without those terrible bloating spells after meals. I do not feel tired out and exhausted after my work as I did before I took your medicine. In short, I think your Plant Juice is just like magic and I heartily recommend it to everybody who suffers as I did."

Plant Juice is made from medicinal plant juices which are extracted from various forms of natural plant life such as roots, barks, herbs and berries. This natural medicine seems to have a surprising effect upon the stomach and system in general. In this section of Ohio alone, it has given relief in several thousand cases of stomach trouble and its constipating such as gas, bloating, pain and acidity in the stomach and chest, headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, fermentation of food and the like. Many people who take Plant Juice say it seems to act like magic.

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, who is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets, and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.—Adv.

COMMISSIONERS FAIL TO ORDER DOG ANNIHILATION

County commissioners have failed to take action thus far in any plan to provide funds for the annihilation of stray and unlicensed dogs. A. J. Gray declared Wednesday.

After talking over the situation, the commissioners reached the conclusion that the dog menace is not great. At least not greater than ordinarily.

Difficulty in collecting dog tax has been experienced by the county ever since a sessor ceased making a house to house canvass. Then owners reported dogs as a part of possessions and they could be assessed. Now the tax is paid voluntarily, or under compulsion when the sheriff threatens to start on a hunting expedition.

The appointments were made necessary by resignation of P. C. Lang, which was confirmed Tuesday night by council, and expiration of the term of M. H. Westrich.

HOME AND JOB BEST AGENTS TO REFORM FALLEN

PITTSBURGH. — "The present police court system all over the United States is making criminals instead of correcting them."

In these words Rollo H. McBride, public defender launched a bitter attack on police court magistrates and judges in an address before an exclusive church gathering here.

McBride, who as superintendent of The Parting of The Ways Home, has helped over 22,000 prisoners to a straight, declared that to reform a man it was necessary to treat him like a man.

"When a man comes from jail he does not want to be preached at and told to be good. What he wants is a place to live and a job.

"It is as logical to arrest a man for drunkenness as it is to put a man in a garbage can to cure him of stomach trouble.

"There is seldom a day passes in our police courts but that a $10 bill stands between a man being called a criminal or a respectable member of society."

De Haven purchased the machine from a number of the Toledo Automobile club, who learned that the organization that the machine had been found and notified him.

NEAR EAST RUPTURE TO BE PUT UP TO THE LEAGUE

LAUSANNE — Great Britain will appeal to the league of nations to intervene in the ailed dispute with Turkey and prevent war in the Near East.

Lord Carson, after the Lausanne conference had reached crisis and Samuel Pashia, Turk spokesman, had again refused concessions demanded by the allies, announced the situation threatened world peace and that Britain would lose no time in taking it before the league.

American Ambassador Child, United States observer, presented to the conference a note asking that the "open door" principle be applied to oil concessions under dispute.

Miss Hitzelberger and Swieger's romance was carried on thru the mails. Brothers of the couple are bosom friends and planned the meeting. Letters were exchanged regularly and with them photographs.

Some time ago Swieger asked Miss Hitzelberger to come to America. She was due to arrive more than a week ago, but was delayed by immigration officials at Ellis Isle.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scherger, Delphos, were requested by Swieger to meet the girl when she arrived.

Here's How Soft Water Saves Soap

One drop of liquid soap will produce the same volume of lather with water made 100 per cent soft by the Wayne Water Softener as is produced by 17 drops of the same soap used in regular water in this city. Yet saving soap is but one of the economies of real soft water. It also saves greatly in cooking, laundering and other household work.

It is generally conceded by economic students that the use of real soft water in the home is the next great step upward in reducing household drudgery and expense.

In cities where the water supply is exceedingly hard, soft water is an absolute necessity.

Even in communities where the water is not so hard as to be an actual inconvenience, 100 per cent soft water makes possible marked savings in household expenses and contributes greatly to raising living conditions.

Soft water gives new pleasure to bathing, shaving and shampooing. It leaves the skin soft and clear.

In the laundry it saves in soap and makes clothing last longer because so much rubbing is not necessary. Clothing is also cleaner and whiter.

In the kitchen, it saves in fuel and time and food is more palatable when cooked with soft water.

Every cleansing operation is made more easy and is done more quickly.

Absolutely soft water in unlimited quantity is made possible at minimum expense by the Wayne Water Softener.

The Wayne Softener is backed by Wayne's 30 years experience in engineering and fine manufacturing.

It is extremely simple, two connections tying it up with the regular city water system. The water flows in at regular city pressure, every bit of hardness is removed by the Wayne Softener as the water passes through and it goes on into the house pipes, ready to gush forth from every faucet in abundance.

We will be glad to explain how the Wayne Softener may be installed in your home. A telephone call or a letter will bring a courteous Wayne representative

HERO THOUGHT DEAD IS ALIVE
Suffers Lapse of Memory for Period of Year
SEES OWN PICTURE IN PAPER
Returns Home to Enjoy Legacy Left by Rich Relative

(BY MILTON BRONNER)
LONDON.—(Special).—Brought back from the living dead by the flash of a newspaper headline, British war veteran, now heir to good-sized fortune, is home again happily reunited with his family.
He is Frank Eltome, who a year ago walked out of his home at Oxford and disappeared.
His wife carried on an untiring search for him. She enlisted the aid of Frank Gray, member of Parliament from her district. Together they ran down many clues—only to be further disappointed.
Meanwhile a rich relative had died and left Eltome a considerable legacy. But no one could collect it, for the heir was missing and not officially dead.
Several weeks ago a man's body was found floating in the Thames. At first it was thought that it might be that of the missing veteran, but later it was identified as that of James Simmonds, of Northampton.
Then came a big sensation. Simmonds walked into his father's home one afternoon alive and well.
The newspapers featured the story and revived the belief that the Thomas corpse was that of the missing Eltome.

A few nights later two slovenly-dressed men, tired out from tramping the countryside in search of an odd job or two, sat down at a cross road to rest a while. They were down-in-the-mouth, out-of-luck. They couldn't even find a night's lodging.
One of them stretched out and picked up a page of a newspaper lying in the mud.
"Blimey," he said, "some rum-go this story." And he went on to read about the mystery of the body found in the Thames.
"Lemme see the piece," said his companion. He looked at the picture first.
"Why he's lost an eye, just like me," he went on. Then he read the name in the headline.
"Frank Eltome—Frank Eltome—Frank—blimey!"
And he went dashing down the road screaming:
"I ain't dead. I ain't drowned. That money is mine."
He was soon in the police station at Abchurch Lane, Birmingham. He had a hard time convincing the authorities that he was in his right mind.
They wired Mrs. Eltome to come down. She thought that she was coming to view a corpse.
Instead she found her husband—alive and well.
"I don't know what happened to me," explained the long missing man. "When I left my home in my mind went completely blank. I have been walking all over the country doing odd work on the farms. But I didn't remember anything until I saw that newspaper picture. Then my memory came back to me like a flash."
As soon as Eltome rests up, he and his wife are going to begin spending his inheritance by opening up a little shop near their home.

Regular business was disposed of and the topic of discussion was the debate to be given before the entire school in the auditorium sometime during February. Try-outs will be started soon to determine who will be the debaters in the clash.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.
If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get these warning signs, get busy with good old Musterole.
Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.
Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

BUILDING HOMES FOR LIMA WORKERS

CONCRETE plans for the erection of 500 to 600 houses during the coming season to house industrial workers have been perfected. This city will see the greatest building campaign of the kind in its history and hundreds of thousands of dollars will be added to its value.

Heads of leading industrial plants, seeing the serious shortage of houses which will exist when expansion of various plants is completed, have evolved a workable plan for financing and handling this gigantic undertaking. They are to be commended for their interest and should have the cooperation of the community in carrying thru their project.

Announcement of this big enterprise, coming on top of the rearing of the Paurot-bik, involving more than two and a half millions and other deals of magnitude, furnishes an insight to what may be expected in Lima in the future. The city is starting on a wonderful era of expansion. It soon will be too large for the clothes intended for a municipality of 50,000 and will require a 60,000 size. Then the demand will continue and it is not a dream of the dim distant future that it will be 100,000.

Every development should be made with this expansion in mind. We cannot build for today alone in a city with the promise that is Lima's. We must plan for tomorrow—the day when the old town will be twice its present size.

CABLE IS A FIGHTER

OUR Congressman, John L. Cable, doesn't intend to submit tamely to seeing a proposed federal court for this city go by the board on objections filed by Judge John M. Killits, of Toledo.

Cable has asked permission to reply to Judge Killits before the judiciary committee of the senate, headed by United States Senator Knute Nelson, in an effort to convince the committee it should report out the measure passed by the lower house of congress.

Just what John has up his sleeve he has not indicated, but he appears to be pretty sure of his ground and doubtless has confidence in his ability to convince that august body the claims for Lima and Allen-co and a number of other counties in this territory are based on grounds that should not be denied.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the United States senate can be made to see Lima needs, and really ought to have a federal court. This city is growing rapidly and while it is possible that we could continue to get along for a time without such a court, it appears assured that ere long the necessity will become apparent.

Another thing our congressman is fighting for, probably with better prospects of success than in his efforts for a federal court, is the passage of an immigration bill before March 4, making important changes in the present three per cent restriction act.

At the suggestion of Cable, the house committee has prepared to frame and rush a bill thru, providing that children aliens may be exempted from the present quota limits placed on immigrants from various countries; that wives of United States citizens may be admitted regardless of quota limits; that aliens thereafter admitted shall be required to register regularly with the government until naturalized; that penalties be imposed upon steamship companies which bring feeble minded persons to United States ports; that the percentage quota of immigrants for each country be based upon the immigration figures of 1930. Instead of 1910, thus enlarging the quotas from North European countries and reducing those of South European countries.

THE KISS BANDIT

A "kiss bandit" is captured by police in an eastern city. Three of his victims identify him. In the dead of night he accosted pretty young women and, flourishing a pistol, demanded their money or a kiss. In most cases he seemed to prefer a kiss. Veteran campaigners will wonder what made him think he'd have to use a gun.

This unique bandit apparently craves love but as yet hasn't selected an exclusive object for his affection. He is mentally muddled by the mating instinct.

Love in its early stages usually is a form of insanity. Later the mind gets it under control, tones it down to a sane state.

ALL WORN OUT

My work is confined to the field of hygiene and prevention—how to keep well or better. I am not a long distance diagnostician, as many readers seem to think nor do I prescribe for individual cases, whether the remedy sought be medicinal, dietetic or otherwise.

If we were to enter upon one side all the ailing whose chief complaint is that they are nervous, tired and worn out, or if they have cheerful friends, varying upon "nervous breakdown" I fear there wouldn't be anybody left upon the other side. No matter what ailment, minor or grave, functional or organic, you are pretty sure to feel nervous, tired and worn out.

What I am driving at will no doubt be ignored or overlooked by readers who are contemplating getting worn out. But I mean to say that when a California plaintiff tells me he always feels nervous, tired and worn out he gives no inkling as to the possible cause or nature of his trouble, and even the two pages of symptoms which he adds and which I considerately omit leave me as far as I can as a doctor can possibly be as to what ails the man. Had the correspondent been a little less experienced in symptom recital and a little more communicative in regard to his mode of life and habits, I might have formed a vague conception of the character of his affliction. No, not a diagnosis, but just an idea whether he ought to consult, say a physical trainer who will treat him rough or a golf instructor who will inspire him to within an inch of his (the instructor's) life, or maybe just a doctor who will make him quit smoking or put him on his feet.

Feeling nervous, tired and worn out, a man or woman may have almost any of the more insidious diseases of adult or mature life. It is exceedingly bad business to fiddle around guessing at the cause of such feelings or inviting guessing contests, if you will have anything to live for. Don't expect to buy a new life of renewed youth and health for $1.99. It isn't done. Loosen up and blow yourself to a modern luxury, a complete physical examination by your physician and the various technical experts he designates for the various technical tests your case requires. All this will cost as much as a new overcoat, or a tire, but it is a sound investment after all, particularly if you come thru marked insurable.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

By BERTON BRALEY

INSTABILITY

They may catch a roving comet by its tail
And reduce it to the hauling of a cart,
They may chain the roaring torrent
Add the gale,
For the scientists are growing very smart.
They will doubtless train the antelope to drive
In the harness of a buggy or a shay,
But there isn't an inventor now alive
Who has found domestic servants
That will stay!
Oh, the flea is rather flighty in his style,
And the butterfly is restless, so to speak,
But the servant has them beaten
By a mile
With an errand instability unique.
All the "wanderlust" the poet sings about
Sends the clan—miscalled "domestics"—on their way,
They are born of gypsy blood beyond a doubt,

For you simply cannot find one who will stay.
We have given them the guest room for their own.
We have let them off each afternoon and night,
The burden of their wages makes us groan,
We have paid them with a manner all delight;
But the moment that we dreaded has to come
When they don their traveling kit and draw their pay
And we hear the fearful words: "I'm leavin', mum."
For you cannot get a servant who will stay!
Oh, you master minds of science, heed our cry,
Would you mitigate the woes of "domestics" say
Put your brains on something useful, won't you try
To invent a type of servant who will stay?

A Page from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter: St. Augustine—early up and summoned James Leman, my collared friend. And out to an island alligator farm with a few snakes, monkeys, coyotes and pet raccoons. On the return James told us his interesting life. He was superintendent of the Sunday School and Deacon when Florida was voting for Prohibition. Came the Bishop, Naow, Mr. Leman, we know yer write on this great evil.

Past the French-Huguenot cemetery, a peach orchard, polka-dot bushes, hibiscus, the Spanish cemetery with tombs above ground dating back to 1726. The jobs of St. Augustine.

And the old Spanish guns, hand cast, cannon balls eight and twelve pounds. Shot a mile and a half. The oldest postoffice in the United States, wall three feet thick. The original windows. The Slave Market, used up until 1865. The oldest house in America, well preserved, built of corina stone. Dr. Anderson's home, private physician to Henry M. Flagler. The Ponce de Leon hotel and the Alcazar, Florida's first modern hotel. Two pickaninies fighting for a penny.

Good-bye to James Leman, who works for Henry Ford's tractor plant in summer time. Off on a bus for Daytona, Mawruss Hoefler's winter home. A 75-mile drive. Swamp and palms on both sides the narrow paved driveway. You turn into the sand by-path to pass. The Hastings potato district. Thousands of acres planted to raise Ireland's favorite fruit. A woman picking oranges from her front porch. A cluster of negro cabins, workers on the potato farm. Every woman but one carrying a baby. Bunnell, Florida. An hour's stop for lunch. Beautiful palm lined streets, asphalt paved. Ridgewood, the most beautiful street in America.

Out of the bus and strolling around the town. A gypsy band, traveling in four Cadillacs. Can you beat it? No wonder Europe thinks all Americans are rich. There's Emerson W. Price, Lima's Mark Twain. Greeted us with fervor, the first Limaites he's seen this season. How's George Bayly and Frank Cunningham? Is Walter Scott still eating his head off? Walked with Emerson out to the beach but didn't know it was two miles. He walks ten every day. The famous Ormond-Daytona speedway bench, where they ran the Vanderbilt cup races. The home of M'seur Gamble, who invented the soap that floats. And across the street Dr. King, maker of King's new discovery, a friend of the ladies. Took a bus back after Emerson invited us to dinner.

So dined on a Philadelphia roast, capon, after Canapee Caviar and clam chowder. With a fresh Mocha tart for the sweet. In the evening, to the Ridgewood hotel to pay my respects to Nathan L. Michael, one of the princes of mercantile Lima. And so, early to bed.

ENGLISH RAILROAD LAW APPROVED

New Amalgamation Eliminates Wasteful Competition

REGULATES WAGES AND RATE

Bill is Different in Many Ways From American System

(BY MILTON BRONNER)

LONDON. — (Special). — Railroads of England, Wales and Scotland have just been amalgamated under the new railroad law into four great systems. Eighteen large and many small railroads are included.

The transfer and amalgamation took place Jan. 1. The entire work will be completed by July.

All Britain is lauding the new law, claimed to be the most enlightened, progressive and fair railroad bill ever passed by a modern state. Unlike the Bee-Cummins bill in the states, the British bill has drawn commendation from railroad owners, employees and users alike.

The bill was the direct outcome of England's experience during the war when the government took over the roads. It also aimed to compromise between owners who wanted complete control of their property and radicals who wanted the roads nationalized.

ELIMINATES WASTEFUL COMPETITION

As passed by Parliament the bill was designed to eliminate wasteful competition—cost of which had to be paid by the consumer—and to give control so as to provide for economy, good service and cheapness.

High spot provisions of the bill: RATES—To regulate both passenger and freight rates there is a rates tribunal composed of a lawyer, an expert representing the railways, and an expert representing the business men. The main function is from time to time to fix the standard charges. The standard revenue for each railway group is to be taken as the sum of its actual net revenues for 1912.

The standard charges are to be fixed so as to enable each group railway to earn this standard revenue, plus five per cent on capital that may have been expended since 1912. But receipt of this net revenue depends upon the efficiency and service given. If earnings exceed the standard revenue, one-fifth of the excess is to go to the companies and four-fifths back to the public, either in reduced charges or improved facilities.

LABOR RELATIONS—Each railway is to have one or more councils consisting of company and employee representatives. Under this arrangement one railway council and not more than five sectional railway councils, with local departmental committees for the discussion of local matters have been set up for each railway group. They consider matters of rates of pay, hours of duty and conditions of service and kindred subjects.

WAGES—Two tribunals are set up. First the Central Wages Board with appeal available to the National Wages Board. The Central Wages Board is made up of eight representatives of the companies and eight employees, four being named by the National Union of Railwaymen, two by the Society of Engineers and Firemen and two by the Railway Clerks Association.

The National Wages Board is made up of six representatives of the railway companies; six representatives of the employees (two from each of the unions above mentioned) and four from the users of the railways.

One each of these is named by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, by the Co-operative Union, by the Association of British Chambers of Commerce and by the Federation of British Industries.

This body is to be presided over by a chairman named by the minister of labor.

YOUNG GIRL IS "MOTHER" TO 128

Instead of Parties, Youthful Head of Orphanage Cares for Inmates

NEW YORK. — (Special). — Twenty-three years old and 128 babies to cuddle, feed and clothe!

That's the task confronting May Weisser, youthful superintendent of the Israel Orphan Asylum, who, almost without warning, was whisked out of the institution's offices where for three years she had served as bookkeeper and told that henceforth the responsibility for the entire institution would be in her hands.

And without a regret for the parties, the good times, the clothes which other girls of her age consider indispensable, Miss Weisser has buckled down to the business of mending the broken hearts and win-ing the noses of the little homeless children of New York's East Side.

"Not a bit of it," smiles the exceedingly attractive young woman who, if looks and charm and disposition count for anything, requires none of Mr. Coue's self-improving devices.

"Every woman wants a home and here I have one all ready for me with 128 children in it. I'm going to make it a real home, too—with bird cages and window boxes and everything."

The bird cages and window boxes, along with diminutive tables, nursery pictures, Dutch blue china and other paraphernalia which Miss Weisser considers every orphan's rightful heritage are already being installed in the asylum. And so successful have her devices been that older and much larger institutions have written to ask her how she does it.

It was Justice Gustave Hartman who recommended Miss Weisser to her task.

Faithfulness over small things, love of children, tact and ability to handle other people were some of the qualities which he enumerated.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: Will you please answer a few questions and give me a little advice. I have been keeping company with a very nice young man and up to recently he was engaged in this city. Recently he returned home. I really like this man and I think he likes me. I haven't heard from him for some time, but I received a letter from him last night. I don't know whether I should write him again or not. Don't you think if he cared for me he would write? My sister is 16 years of age. Is she old enough to have a beau? Have you a remedy for blackheads?

I cannot see why in the world you should be in doubt as to whether or not to write to this man. If he has answered a letter isn't that all that is necessary? If he had wished to discontinue his correspondence with you he would have either forgotten to answer or would have told you in his letter. It is not customary for people to write two letters before they receive an answer. So it would be perfectly proper for you to write.

I never advise girls to keep company with men unless they have attained the age of eighteen. However, there are exceptions. If the parents approve, or if they are in company with older friends, I would be a bit more lenient. I never advise night riding or public dances. The most simple and really effective remedy for a slight case of blackheads is to wash the face thoroughly with green soap and hot water. Then rinse and massage with a good cold cream. You can get green soap or green soap solution at any drug store.

For more severe cases of blackheads, use a solution of 1 dram of powdered sulphur; 1 dram of glycerine; 1-2 pint of rose water; two grams of spirit of camphor. Put on face and leave on over night. Wash off in the morning with green soap and water.

Miss Smart: I went with a young man for a while and we had expected to marry, but my parents broke off the match. He gave me a string of pearls. Should I return them?—L.

If the beads are expensive ones, or if keeping them would serve only as an unhappy reminder of the engagement, it would be better to return them.

Dear Miss Smart: Do you think it safe to marry on $20 a week?—L.

Many couples live on this amount, but it is generally agreed that it is wiser for young people to wait until the income is at least $100 a month.

But the question of family finances is an individual one. It depends so much upon the man and wife. There is many a young woman who could, with her training and ingenuity, her industry and economy, get better results from $20 a week than another would achieve on twice that amount.

And as for the budget, that, too, is a thing to be worked out by each family, according to individual tastes and needs. Books, pamphlets and magazine articles, which can be secured at the Public Library, or, perhaps at your bank, will give a working basis for a budget, but it probably will take several months to work out one which will be satisfactory.

The Best Way

To get strong and to keep well is to help Nature rebuild and repair the wear and tear upon body cells. Food is not always sufficiently selected or properly used. The best medicine is that which builds up, not merely braces up. This is why Father John's Medicine secures results, which have caused its steadily increasing use for over sixty-seven years. It contains neither alcohol nor drugs. It supplies one of Nature's great food-medicines which can be easily digested and effectively used. Get a bottle today. It is a builder, not a mere bracer.

ENGINEER J. W. Nihoot, B. & O. R. R., who says Tangle fully restored his health and built him up twelve pounds.

"Tangle built me up twelve pounds and I feel simply fine, declared J. W. Nihoot, well known B. & O. engineer of 35 Kewisk Ave., Clifton Forge, Va.

"My troubles were indigestion, constipation, biliousness and a general run-down condition. My stomach caused me such misery that for days at a time I couldn't even eat a soft boiled egg. I was so worn out in the morning I could hardly drag off to the yards.

"I was going down grade fast but Tangle put on the brakes and now I am on the hill top again in health. My appetite is so good I enjoyed Christmas 'cats' to the fullest, and my troubles are over. Neither my wife nor myself can say too much for Tangle."

Tangle is for sale by Hunter's drug store and all druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

—BY RAFAEL SABATINI—

Within a quarter of an hour Blood's ships had rounded the head, and stood in to the harbor mouth, within saker shot of Rivaroli's three ships, to which they now abruptly disclosed themselves.

Where the fort had stood they now beheld a smoking rubbish heap, and the victorious Frenchman with the lily standard, trailing from his mastheads was sweeping forward to watch the rich prize whose defenses he had shattered.

Before Rivaroli could move to give an order a volcano of fire and metal burst upon him from the buccaners. The Arabella held to her course, giving place to the Elizabeth, which executed the same maneuver. And then the Arabella had gone about, and was returning in her tracks and losing her second broadside in the wake of the first. Come yet another broadside from the Elizabeth and then the Arabella's trumpet sent a call across the water, which Hagthorpe perfectly understood.

"On, now, Jeremy!" cried Blood. "Straight into them before they recover their wits. Stand by, there! Prepared to board! Hayton . . . the grapples! And pass the word to the gunner in the prow to fire as fast as he can load."

He discarded his feathered hat and covered himself with a steel headpiece. He meant to lead his boarding party in person. Briskly he explained himself to his two guests. "Boarding is our only chance here. We are too heavily outgunned."

Of this the fullest demonstration followed quickly. The Frenchman having recovered their wits at last, both ships swung broadside on, and concentrating upon the Arabella, volleyed upon her jointly at almost the same moment.

The Arabella rocked and staggered under that terrific hammering. Though Pitt kept her headed towards the French so that she should offer the narrowest target.

Meanwhile, the Frenchman going about, gave the like reception to the Elizabeth. The Arabella pressed forward to come to grips. But before she could accomplish her object, the Victoriouse pounded her advancing enemy with a second broadside at close quarters. The half-wrecked Arabella plunged and recoiled into the cloud of smoke that concealed her prey, and then from Hayton went up the cry that she was going down by the head.

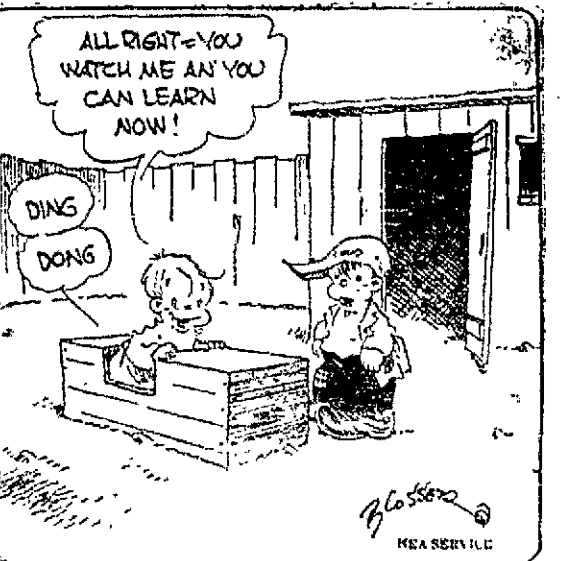

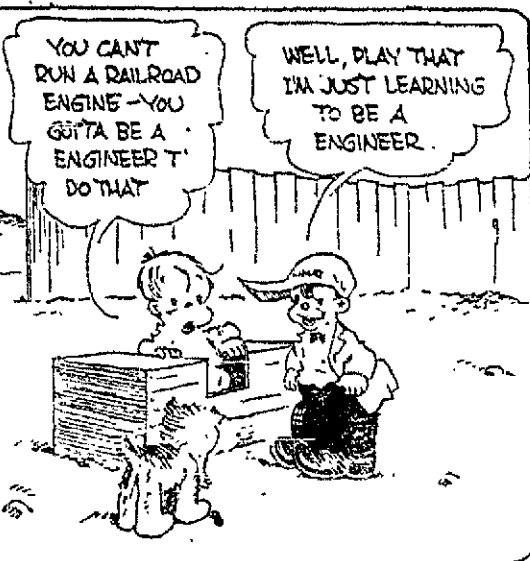

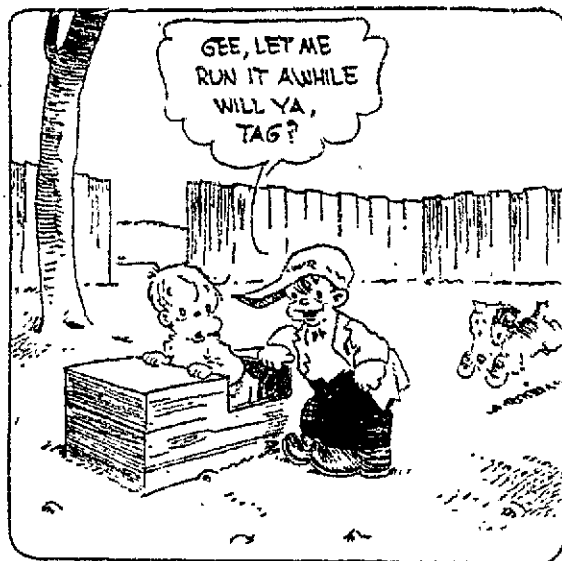

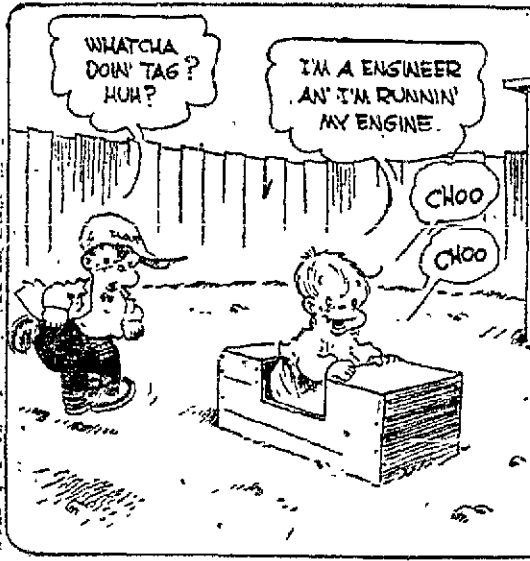

Blood's heart stood still. And then in that very moment of his despair, the blue and gold flank of the Victoriouse loomed through the smoke. But as he caught that encouraging glimpse he perceived, "too, how slender now was their advance, and how with every second it grew more sluggish. They must sink before they reached her."

Thus, with an oath, opined the Dutch admiral, and from Lord Willoughby there was a word of blame for Blood's seamanship in having risked all upon this gambler's throw of boarding.

"There was no other chance!" cried Blood, in broken-hearted frenzy.

But they had not yet completely failed. Hayton himself, and a score of sturdy rogues whom his whistle had summoned, were crouching for shelter amid the wreckage of the forecabin with grapples ready. Within nine or ten yards of the Victoriouse, when their way seemed spent, and their forward deck already awash under the eyes of the jeering, cheering Frenchmen, those men leapt up and forward and hurried their grapples across the chasm. Blood watching from his own quarterdeck, sent out his voice in a clarion call:

"Musketiers to the prow!"

The musketiers, at their station

at the waist, obeyed him with the respect of men who know that in obedience is the only hope of life.

Starboard to starboard the two ships swung against each other with a jarring thud. By then Blood was down in the waist, judging and acting with the hurricane speed the ocean demanded. The four-decker Arabella was literally kept aloft by the half dozen grapples that in an instant moored her firmly to the Victoriouse.

Willoughby and van der Kuylen on the poop had watched in breathless amazement the speed and precision with which Blood and his desperate crew had gone to work. And now he came racing up, his bugle sounding the charge, the main host of the buccaners following him, whilst, the vanguard, led by the gunner Ogle, who had been driven from his guns by water in the gun-deck, leapt shouting to the prow of the Victoriouse, to whose level the high poop of the water-clogged Arabella had sunk. Led now by Blood himself, they launched themselves upon the French like hounds upon the stag they have brought to bay. After them went others, until all had gone, and none but Willoughby and the Dutchman were left to watch the fight from the quarterdeck of the abandoned Arabella.

For fully half an hour that battle raged aboard the Frenchman. The buccaners fought with the desperate fury of men who know that retreat is impossible, for there was no ship to which they could retreat, and here they must prevail and make the Victoriouse their own or perish.

And their own they made her in the end, at a cost of nearly half their numbers. Rivaroli went down with a bullet in his head, and the French remnant, numbering scarcely a score of whole men, called for quarter.

Even then the labors of Blood's men were not an end. The Elizabeth and the Medusa were tight-locked, and Hagthorpe's followers were being driven back aboard their own ship for the second time. Whilst Pitt and his seamen bore their part with the sails, and Ogle went below, with a gun crew, Blood ordered the grapples to be loosened and Lord Willoughby and the Admiral were already aboard the Victoriouse. As they swung off to the rescue of Hagthorpe, Blood, from the quarterdeck of the conquered vessel, looked his last upon the ship that had served him so well, the ship that had become to him almost as a part of himself. A moment she rocked after her rescue, then slowly and gradually settled down, the water ebbing and eddying about her topmast, all that remained visible to mark the spot where she had met her death.

As he stood there, above the ghastly shambles in the waist of the Victoriouse, someone spoke behind him. "Captain Blood" never before have I seen the impossible made possible by coolness and valor, or victory so gallantly snatched.

He turned, and presented to Lord Willoughby a formidable front. His headpiece was gone, his breastplate dented, his right sleeve a rag hanging from his shoulder about a naked arm. He was splashed from head to foot with blood, and there was blood from a scalp wound that he had taken smothering his hair and mixing with the grime of powder on his face to render him unrecognizable.

But from that horrible mask two vivid eyes looked out preternaturally bright, and from those eyes two tears had ploughed each a furrow thru the filth of his cheeks.

CHAPTER XXXI
His Excellency, the Governor

When the cost of that victory came to be counted, it was found that of 320 buccaners who had left Cartagena with Captain Blood, a bare hundred remained sound and whole. The Elizabeth had suffered so seriously that it was doubtful if she could ever again be rendered seaworthy, and Hagthorpe, who had so gallantly commanded her in that last action, was dead. Against this stood the facts that Blood's buccaners had saved Jamaica from bombardment and pillage, and they had captured the fleet of M. de Rivaroli, and seized for the benefit of King William the splendid treasure which she carried.

It was not until the evening of the following day that van der Kuylen's fleet of nine ships came to anchor in the harbor of Port Royal, and its officers, Dutch and English, were made acquainted with their Admiral's true opinion of their worth.

Six ships of that fleet were instantly refitted for sea. There were other West Indian settlements demanding the visit of inspection of the new Governor-General, and Lord Willoughby was in haste to sail for the Antilles.

"And meanwhile," he complained to his Admiral, "I am detained here by the absence of this fool of a Deputy-Governor."

"So," said van der Kuylen. "But why should I do that?"

"That I may break the dog as he deserves and appoint his successor in some man filled with a sense of where his duty lies, and with the ability to perform it."

"And that is not necessary you remain for that. And meantime de French will half die of eye on Barbados, which is not well defended. You had better chide him man you want. He will require no instructions, this one. He will know how to make Port Royal safe, headier nor you, or me."

"You mean Blood?"

"Of course. Could any man be bolder? You had seen what he can do."

"You think so, too, eh? Dead! I had thought of it; and, rip me, why not?"

Blood was sent for. He came, spruce and dapper, one more, having exploited the resources of Port Royal so to render himself, it was a trifle dazzled by the honor proposed to him, when Lord Willoughby made it known.

"I had counted upon going home, so I had, I am hungry for the green lanes of England," Blood sighed.

"There will be apple blossoms in the orchards of Somerset."

"Apple blossoms?" His lordship's voice shot up like a rocket, and cracked on the word. "What the devil . . . ? Apple blossoms!" He looked at van der Kuylen.

The Admiral raised his brows and pursed his heavy lips. His eyes twinkled humorously in his great face.

Parlor B, Lima House, is the place that many are making a Little Journey, to meet Dr. Frederick Blankner in a heart to heart talk

Yes, Dr. Frederick Blankner, the Specialist, will be here until Tues., Jan. 20th, to serve all who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with some complicated chronic disease of the stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, lungs or nerves, or some subsidiary disease as a result of physiological blood poisoning, such as rheumatism, gonorrhea, acute chronic nasal catarrh or in other words, if you wish to feel like a real human being and enjoy the fruits of health and happiness, then you make a Little Journey to Parlor B, when Dr. Blankner will tell you just why you are sick and inform you just how you can recover your health.

DR. FREDERICK BLANKNER

In Chicago it has been determined that 90 percent of the people are suffering the ill effects of diseased teeth and both the medical and dental professions declare that diseased teeth have a great influence on the general health and advise either extraction or repairing of the teeth. Where teeth are in an ulcerated and inflamed condition or have advanced to such a diseased condition where repair is impossible, then extraction by all means is advisable in order to preserve the health of the victim. For the past thirty-five years this has been the philosophy of Dr. Blankner and he has found in hundreds of cases that the teeth were responsible practically for all the misery that many suffer and when he extracted the teeth, he placed the patient in a fair condition for the recovery of health.

Now listen, when you come to Parlor B, you do not have to take chloroform, ether, gas, semiconscious, or even unconscious. All you have to do is to sit down in an ordinary gas as you please rocking chair, while Dr. Blankner will sit down by your side and extract your teeth so easily, gracefully, scientifically and painlessly, that you will simply have to smile and say, God Bless the Doctor. This is the Blankner way and just the way every one wishes to have their teeth extracted. No danger of taking cold, no bad results. You have this opportunity until Tues., Jan. 20th. Office hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sunday by appointment. Phone service. Doctor's wife in attendance.

LOSS OF MEN WEAKENS BOTH HIGH CAGE TEAMS

WETHERILL IS ELIGIBLE FOR SEASON; SOUTH WRECKED

Following the announcement Tuesday that Wetherill was ineligible for the remainder of the Central basketball schedule, it was discovered that "it was all a mistake."

Wetherill will play during the remainder of the season, but to offset that good piece of good fortune, a second report declared McLaughlin ineligible.

The exchange of Wetherill and McLaughlin does not add to or subtract from the strength of the outfit, but McLaughlin with Taylor will prove a serious loss.

One of the greatest points of strength on the Red and Green gridiron squad was the large number of sound string men, who were fully capable of stepping into a breach.

Coach Thibault has followed out the same plan in developing the cage aggregation, and as the only experienced men on the variety five is Captain Seelye, the first and best of the bunch, he has been interchanged to a great extent.

Two men from the squad at this stage of the season will be a serious loss, although not sufficiently serious to put the line out of the running for honors.

South on the other hand, minus three stars because of defection, is in a bad way. Practically an entire new team must be built up out of the ruins. Coach Burdette, however, is fortunate in possessing one excellent material and the little and Gold is hopeful of ending up the year in even better shape than at the first of the schedule.

GOLF IS SURELY A MOCKER OF TIME

(BY BILLY EVANS)

Don't it seem like a mockery of time, in his ball, a player is a veteran at 30, a decrepit old man at 40.

Harry Warner, famous National League star, managed to keep going until he was 43. Hans, however, is a rare bird, the decided exception. In the fight game, the boxer is young at 15, old at 25 and usually then at 30.

Jack Britton managed to win a title at the 35-year-old mark, and held it to a 40-year-old before being dethroned. The fight game, however, has a few Jack Brittons.

College football players reach stardom at 20. Usually at 25 they have graduated and passed up the strenuous game of football for all time.

THORPE IS EXCEPTION
Jim Thorpe is one exception to the rule. Out of the Indian school, where Jim first gained fame on the gridiron, for a dozen or more years, Thorpe continued to shine in a professional way on the gridiron. Jim is well on the way to 40.

But golf, well, that is an entirely different sport with an interesting story.

Golf is literally played from the cradle to the grave. There is no age limit to starting or stopping. That is why golf is certain to continue in popularity with a constant increase in its devotees.

True, last year youth was served in golfing circles as no Sarazen, at 21, won the national open, Jessi Sweezy, at 20, captured the national amateur, while Glenora Galt, only 18, was supreme among the women golfers.

The theory that youth must be served does not hold good in golf, despite the fact that youth enjoyed in 1922.

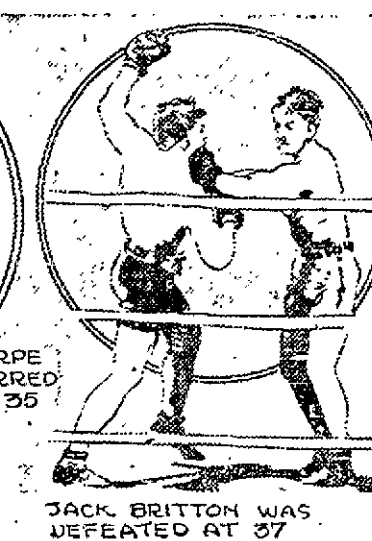

CASE OF JOHN BALL
Gene Sarazen, in winning the national open, but had only one stroke better than John Black, who is 43 and a grandmaster.

In 1929 Ted Ray won the national open at 42, while Harry Vardon, 51 year of age, finished in a tie for second place.

Back in 1888 John Ball Jr. won the British open. He kept on winning them at various times, so that 24 years later he won the title of British open champion for the eighth time. What other sport could possibly produce such a happening?

In the United States, we have Walter Travis to offer as runner-up to the feats of John Ball.

Travis began playing golf at the age of 35. At the age of 63 he notated the Palm Beach course in 68.

In a space covering 25 years golf has increased the number of players from a mere 10,000 to over 2,000,000. It is played by more people than any other sport except baseball, if we can take the word of the statisticians.

JOHN BALL—WON BRITISH OPEN—AND 24 YEARS LATER WON IT AGAIN

Chances Slim In Tennis

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK—All the honors that the United States earns in international tennis next season will have to be won in the Davis cup matches.

Mrs. Nella Mahory, American woman champion, has announced her intention not to play at Wimbledon and the United States Lawn Tennis Association is not going to send representatives to the British championships.

Success of America's colors, even in the Davis cup matches is more doubtful than it was at the end of last season when it looked as if Uncle Sam had a 50-year lease on the trophy. Since then, however, Bill Tilden has lost a part of a finger and that has changed the complexion of the whole situation.

Upon Tilden's ability to play something close to his former world's championship game with a crippled hand depends America's chances to retain the cup.

Bill Johnston is not physically powerful enough to carry the entire load on his shoulders, and it has been shown that Dick Williams and Vinnie Richards are not the artists of the "Two Bill" type.

Success of America's colors, even in the Davis cup matches is more doubtful than it was at the end of last season when it looked as if Uncle Sam had a 50-year lease on the trophy. Since then, however, Bill Tilden has lost a part of a finger and that has changed the complexion of the whole situation.

Upon Tilden's ability to play something close to his former world's championship game with a crippled hand depends America's chances to retain the cup.

Bill Johnston is not physically powerful enough to carry the entire load on his shoulders, and it has been shown that Dick Williams and Vinnie Richards are not the artists of the "Two Bill" type.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

NO. 22—THE MOST UNUSUAL PLAY I EVER SAW

Ray Schalk is one of the greatest catchers the game ever produced, largely because he does other things aside from the mere giving of signals, catching and throwing the ball.

Ray Schalk is a thinker. There is a reason for everything he does on the ball field. He gives thought to every ball pitched. He is constantly looking over his playing field to see that infielders and outfielders shift properly for the style of pitch he has signaled for.

When Hal Chase was playing first base for the Chicago White Sox, he and Schalk pulled many a remarkable play. While Schalk featured two of the most unusual plays I ever saw a catcher make, assistance from Chase played a prominent part.

One of the plays was the result of fast thinking on the part of Schalk and a perfectly timed throw by Chase. The other play was the result of a plan that Schalk and Chase had worked out.

Ray Schalk is the only catcher I ever saw get a putout at third base on a throw from the first baseman. The only catcher to get a putout at first base on a throw from an outfielder. As to a throw from an outfielder to a putout at third base.

With a visiting runner on first base and no one out, the batsman laid down a bunt, which both the third baseman and pitcher went after. The pitcher handled the bunt, getting the runner at first base on a close play. The third baseman, in order to get out of the pitcher's way in fielding the ball, had purposely fallen to the ground.

The base runner originally on first—a very fast man—noticed that third base was uncovered as he rounded second base, and decided to try for third. Ray Schalk had defined the intention of the base runner before he reached second, and had raced down to third base from his position back of the plate.

Hal Chase had also sized up the situation. He held his throw until Schalk was able to get into position to receive it. Then he made a fast, accurate throw to third. Schalk received the throw a fraction of a second ahead of the runner, and managed to get the ball on him by making a dive for the runner as he started his hook-side into the base.

It was a most remarkable play because it required quick thinking on Schalk's part, and even faster execution for him to reach third ahead of the runner. To complete the play it required a perfect throw by Chase.

JUST A DOG, A MAN AND NATURE'S BEAUTY

JENKINS walked home slowly. He walked slowly because he was hen-pecked. There was a dejected "r" about him.

As he turned in at the gate an ugly, dejected dog followed him in. Mrs. Jenkins was scrubbing the porch. She threatened the dog and it sought protection behind Jenkins. He wanted to feed the dog before driving him away.

"Jenkins! Take that mutt away from here and don't dare come back for your supper until you have lost him!"

So Jenkins and the mutt went away. The dog was happy. At last he had found a man who could play "hide-and-seek." Jenkins could not slip away from the dog. He tied the dog to a pipe with a piece of string.

There was conflict within Jenkins. He loved that dog. The dog was a kindred spirit. So Jenkins tried to bully himself into the belief that he was really trying to lose the dog. The string he tied the dog with was a weak one. The dog broke it and caught up with Jenkins.

Jenkins still had the problem on his hands. He got a piece of rope and went down to a creek. He would drown the dog! Yessir! That's just what he'd do!

The dog was a big one. The rope he tied on his neck was a small one. He threw the dog in. Then he hid his face in his hands, remorseful at the first cruel thing he had ever done. He was roused by the dog shaking water on him.

Dawn found him with the problem unsolved. Jenkins couldn't go home then. "Perhaps we'd just better keep on walking until I think of something," he said to the mutt. So they set off into the hills. The day became a week and the weeks became months. Jenkins found solace in the company of this dog and in the great solitudes they visited. But time and distance softened Jenkins' memory of his spouse and he tramped back home. She was gone. He went back into the wilderness with the dog.

Robert Bruce tells that story in one reel in "Jenkins and the Mutt," one of a new series of Wilderness Tales. After seeing this new series the conviction grows that Bruce has developed the art of the screen to the highest degree yet attained in America or Europe.

"By Candle Light" is a tale of the Oregon coast. A rising tide cuts off two boys in a rocky cave. Their parents search for them thru the night. Pictorially, this is the best thing Bruce has ever done. That means that pictorially it is the best

Another in the series is "Moon Blind." It is Bruce's pet. He believes it his best. It is an exceedingly fine film, but its story is not so whimsically human as "Jenkins and the Mutt" and it doesn't achieve the impressive combination of human and nature that made "Candle Light" such a gripping drama. There is an abundance of bright film ever made. In its dramatic phases it is almost as holding, as thrilling as "And Women Must Weep." It has more of the element of suspense than any thriller serial ever made. This suspense is natural and legitimate.

Worker's Views of Situation Given by Forbes

SEES TOO MANY 'TAX EATERS'

Declares Government Boards Are Too Numerous

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — I entered a typical American workshop. Scores and scores of grimy workmen were busy. The work wasn't exactly of the kid-glove kind. The bubbling machines caused a lot of dirt.

The work calls for men of intelligence. They draw better than average pay. Most of them are native-born Americans.

I talked with one of them, a man of 60, perhaps. Knowing my line of work, he launched into a tirade against existing conditions, and I've since been wondering whether some of the things he said may not represent the ideas and the feelings of a rapidly-increasing number of fellows.

When he began to kick, I suggested that he and the other workers in his line had had their pay raised very substantially within the last few years.

Omitting a plentiful sprinkling of swear words, here is his report:

"Yes, but I'm no better off than I was before. I'm worse off. I've got to pay twice as much for rent. Coal is very dear—when you can get it. They soak you right and left for food. The price of shoes is a shame. Clothing is dear and it's mostly shoddy.

"No, sir, I tell you I'm worse off than I was when we were getting less wages."

He kept right on working meanwhile.

"What do you think is the trouble?" I asked.

"Wiping his sweaty forehead with the back of a sweaty hand, he stopped working, evidently feeling that he couldn't do justice to the subject and work at the same time. Here is the pith of what he let out, with terrific emphasis:

"The trouble is too many snoots around, too much interference by the government, too many loafers living off the rest of us who have to work and sweat for a bare living."

"The government wants to butt into everybody's affairs and interfere with everybody now-a-days. They're running stark mad with their appointing of commissions of every kind to nose into everybody's affairs. The politicians just love to create commissions after commission, because every commission, of course, must have its members drawing fat salaries, its well-paid secretaries and its gangs of snoopers. The politicians pick the fattest jobs for themselves, and give the ones they don't want to their friends or their friends' sons and daughters. Every last one of these commissions means just so many tax-eaters and just so many more loafers who don't create a blamed thing. They're nothing but parasites. We have to feed them and carry them on our backs.

"I wonder what they'll interfere with next? Think of interfering with my and my glass of beer! This prohibition is a joke. There isn't prohibition at all for the rich slicks. They can get all they want—good stuff, too.

"But poor devils like myself that can't pay fancy prices for a drink have to go without or run the risk of swallowing some stuff that will blind you or kill you right off.

"And what a fine lot of jobs this prohibition farce has meant! Why right here in New York City hundreds of policemen get a free pass every night for cabaret shows. They're supposed to watch that no fellow takes a flash out of his hip pocket and has a drink. And, of course, an extra few hundred policemen have had to be taken on before taxes!"

He paused for breath rather than for want of fresh words. So I had a chance to remark that he evidently didn't believe in the government going into this, that, and the next thing.

Instantly, he exploded: "I do believe in government ownership! I mean I believe in the government running things it can run at a profit. I'm in favor of the government making money and then reducing taxes. I'm woe all right, to the fact that the workingman is taxed at every turn thru the tariff and by other sly schemes of the big business fellows who work in cahoots to keep up prices.

"If the government could give my coal at a decent price, then I'm for the government owning every coal mine in the country. The government should be running the railroads, not a lot of highbinders down in Wall Street. I tell you, I want the government to run things that will make money."

He again stopped, but only for a moment, to regain his breath.

"What I'm against is the government interfering with business and me and everything and everybody and piling billions of dollars of costs every year to give millions of tax-eaters cinches. They're multiplying faster than rabbits. It is high time to call a halt. If things go on as they have been going, we'll have more tax-eaters than workers, than tax-crunts. The thing to do is to get quits on the snooping around and cutting into everything and interfering with everybody.

"There are too many tax-eaters leeches sucking our blood."

SCHOOL BOARD IN PAVING DILEMMA

Cannot Pay Cost of Street Work From Operating Fund

REJECT NIXON-AV. PROJECT

Plan to Provide Milk for Children is Considered

In an effort to reach an agreement on the proposition of paving streets near school grounds in the city, Ralph Austin and J. W. Gensel were designated to call on the city commission, a meeting of the school board held at Central high school Tuesday night.

The city has long sought to force the board to pay for paving. The board has refused on the plea that it cannot take care of the paving cost from operation money. The city should pay, it is held by the board, as the law provides a way.

The city commission contends that there is no money for the purpose in its treasury.

Board members took action after a petition to pave Nixon-av. from Wayne-st. to Spring-st. presented by the West End Realty Company had been turned down. A company agent told the board unless they signed, the paving proposition would fall from lack of signers.

To pave the street on which school property is situated would cost the board $200,000, Ralph Austin estimated.

MILK PLAN FAVORED

The board entertained a proposition from a local dairy company to deliver milk to elementary schools of the city twice each day, commencing February 1, for under-nourished children.

Investigation made by Miss Artha T. Nichols recently shows 411 children out of 5,000 are suffering from malnutrition. Of this number 208 are from homes where it is impossible to provide milk.

The dairy concern offered to work out a plan to serve milk free to these children, provided 1,400 children drink the milk. The plan is optional with parents. Members of the board are favorable toward the idea.

Superintendent J. E. Collins read a letter from Vernon Kelgel, state superintendent, commending the work in the Lima schools for crippled children. Miss Florence Moore, teacher, is rated among the best in the state engaged in this work.

Work in this school is carried on at small cost to the tax-payers, Collins said.

CITIZENS WIN IN PAVING WAR

Delphos Council Votes to Hold up 3-Street Project

Ordinances covering procedure in the proposed paving of S. Main, S. Pierce and Cleveland-sts., Delphos, were given an indefinite postponement Tuesday night at the meeting of city council when the body voted unanimously in favor of Councilman Frank Pfeiffer's motion to table the project until a future date.

Thirty property owners, including three women, were present to air their views on the project, which has been held up for a variety of causes since 1918.

J. H. Judding spoke for the tax-payers, whom he said represent no particular committee, but are in favor of the same move that prompted a large delegation to appear January 9, to postpone paving until 1924.

Pfeiffer's motion was seconded by Councilman Ditto. John Lehnkuhle made a reservation when he stated that the project should not be considered again by council unless the property owners affected be given ample notice. This was agreed to.

The move of the council was the result of a caucus held before the meeting. Further investigation will be made, councilmen say.

The legislation which was up for consideration includes tree ordinances repealing three other measures, made inoperative by property owners' injunction.

By a four to three vote January 9, council placed the ordinance on their first reading, but a motion to suspend the rule requiring them to be read at their separate meetings was blocked. The legislation was up for its second reading Tuesday night.

The meeting lasted only 45 minutes, 30 of which was consumed by Clerk W. H. Shaffer in reading minutes of the preceding meeting.

1 doz. cans good Tomatoes, $1.00; 1 doz. cans good Corn, 95c; 1 doz. cans good Peas, 95c; 1 doz. cans Walrus Salmon, $2.75; 1 box good Prunes, $2.00, at Dorsey's.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multisified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multisified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisified in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water, rub the Multisified coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisified.—Adv.

THE WORMS' GONNA TURN AT LAST. MUTT'S RUNNING A CHEAP HASH HOUSE AND IT'S MY CHANCE TO GET EVEN WITH HIM FOR THE WAY HE TREATED ME WHEN I WAS A WAITER FOR SPIES.

TROT OUT ONE OF YOUR FORTY-CENT DINNERS AND SHOW SOME SPEED. GET ME?

WHAT ARE YOU FUSSING ABOUT—AIN'T THE SOUP GOOD?

IT'S FLAVORED FINE, WATER, BUT THERE AIN'T QUITE ENOUGH BODY TO IT!

WOULD YOU MIND WASHING A COUPLE MORE DISHES IN IT AND THICKEN IT UP A BIT?

BLUD!

I WONDER IF I HAVE TO WAIT ALL DAY, IN THIS HOTEL, FOR A MESSENGER.

SO, YOU'RE HERE AT LAST - SEE THAT THIS LETTER IS DELIVERED!

I'LL JOLLY WELL ATTEND TO IT, SIR!

SAY - WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU ARE GOIN' TO A FUNERAL?

NO - AND I'M NOT GOING TO A BLOOMING FIRE - EITHER!
